NCTE Annual Convention November 16–19, 2006

O f all our most important jobs as professionals is to serve the needs of our constituents and to focus our work to improve opportunities for all students with disabilities. This work is particularly challenging. The struggle is to maintain and develop a personal and professional philosophy and teaching and learning strategies. These are the needs of our students today, but they have never been more apparent to us either: Far too many students are not service us. And it’s time for us to act now to do our part to serve our students and the needs of our constituents.

While making our own personal decisions is the expertise of the entire set of teachers and students, more important is to make us as possible as possible. One of the most important ways we can support our own learning is to teach students how to make their own decisions. How can we help our students learn to make their own decisions? By teaching them to decide on their own. We can do this by talking about the decision that we’ve made. It’s important for our students to learn to make their own decisions.

In this and the next several issues I will share tips of keeping teachers. These tips are for PC’s. If you use a Mac, the following line has tips you can use: http://www.birdsite.apple.com/article/0,1470,10,00.html.

Keyboarding Time-savers
Karen A. Johnson, Pondera Middle School, Tigard, Oregon

In this and the next several issues I will share tips for keeping teachers. These tips are for PC’s. If you use a Mac, the following line has tips you can use: http://www.birdsite.apple.com/article/0,1470,10,00.html.

"W" and "K"—"W" will open the Windows Explorer function to help you locate and manipulate files.

"F" and "M" will open WordPad files to help you locate and manipulate files.

"D" and "F"—"D" will open the document or file function to help you locate and manipulate files.

"I" and "F"—"I" will open the index function and on.

"G" and "F"—"G" will open the next function and on.

"A" and "F"—"A" will open the applications function on and off.

Taking It Forward by Susan Mural, Blueviewton High School

One of my most important jobs as professionals is to serve the needs of our constituents and to focus our work to improve opportunities for all students with disabilities. This work is particularly challenging. The struggle is to maintain and develop a personal and professional philosophy and teaching and learning strategies. These are the needs of our students today, but they have never been more apparent to us. Far too many students are not served. And it’s time for us to act now to do our part to serve our students and the needs of our constituents.

While making our own personal decisions is the expertise of the entire set of teachers and students, more important is to make us as possible as possible. One of the most important ways we can support our own learning is to teach students how to make their own decisions. How can we help our students learn to make their own decisions? By teaching them to decide on their own. We can do this by talking about the decision that we’ve made. It’s important for our students to learn to make their own decisions.

In this and the next several issues I will share tips of keeping teachers. These tips are for PC’s. If you use a Mac, the following line has tips you can use: http://www.birdsite.apple.com/article/0,1470,10,00.html.

"W" and "K"—"W" will open the Windows Explorer function to help you locate and manipulate files.

"F" and "M" will open WordPad files to help you locate and manipulate files.

"D" and "F"—"D" will open the document or file function to help you locate and manipulate files.

"I" and "F"—"I" will open the index function and on.

"G" and "F"—"G" will open the next function and on.

"A" and "F"—"A" will open the applications function on and off.
The World Begins Here: An Anthology of Oregon Dust Fables
Three Oregon stories ranging from the 1800s to the present day.

Lorey Fables: An Anthology of Oregon Autobiography
These Oregon stories by prominent Oregonians, from the 1800s to the present day.

Varieties of Hope: An Anthology of Oregon Prase
The Oregon poetry written by prominent Oregonians, from the 1800s to the present day.

From Here We Speak: An Anthology of Oregon Poetry
The historical anthology spans four centuries and seeks to balance a diverse range of Oregonian voices.

The Stories We Tell: An Anthology of Oregon Folk Literature
Eight Oregon stories from the oral tradition.

Galley Publishing on Oregon: An Anthology of Oregon Writers and Stories
These stories, created during his lifetime by outstanding Oregonians, reveal a personal side of Oregon's history.

The Oregon Council of Teachers of English CHALKBOARD
PCB Box 2415
20915 SE Zena Blvd.
Portland, OR 97207-9126
RETURNED SERVICE REQUESTED

OCTE Fall Conference 2006 Speakers

Graduate Credit or PDUs Available at OCTE Fall Conference
During academic credit or professional development units credits towards membership to OCTE Conferences. Register to earn one academic credit worth $25.00 from Portland State University, and at just pay for your PDU certificate—6 credits at the end of the conference.

OCTE Fall Conference 2006:

CONFERENCE REGISTRATIONS
PRE-REGISTRATION FORM
Fall 2006 Language Arts/Reading Conference: October 7th, 2006 • Lake Oswego, Oregon

Conference Requirements
Include: continental breakfast and lunch
Name:
City:
State/Zip:
Phone:
e-mail:
School:

The Oregon Council of Teachers of English
3515 SE Zena Blvd.
Portland, OR 97207-9126
(503) 297-8215
WWW.OCTEE.ORG

OCTE Fall Conference 2006

PRE-REGISTRATION FORM
Fall 2006 Language Arts/Reading Conference October 7th, 2006 • Lake Oswego High School 2101 SW County Club Road, Lake Oswego

OCTE Fall Conference October 7th at Lake Oswego High School
You can earn 0.5 CECs by attending this conference.

OCTE 2006 Conference includes a full day of workshops and presentations, centered on the theme of Becoming Literate: Teaching from the Inside Out and encouraging teachers from every perspective in the elementary, middle, and high school levels, and school districts.

Keynote speakers include Tim Gillespie, Carol Jago, and Tim Birdseye. Each speaker tackles years of experience in Language Arts.

Tim Gillespie. His keynote will be a forum to discuss new directions. Times are a-changing in the English classroom.

Carol Jago, also known as ‘the writer’ and ‘the editor’, is a very influential figure in the Language Arts world. She has authored many books with a full slate of conference appearances this year.

Tim Birdseye, a native of Oregon, has long been working in the field of Language Arts. His keynote will be a practical look at the world of Language Arts, with a focus on ‘how to teach’.

Don’t miss the OCTE Fall Conference! It’s a tradition that Language Arts lovers in Oregon can’t wait for each year.

For more information about this conference, please contact:
Tina Login, Office Manager, Oregon Council of Teachers of English, tina.login@octee.org

For information: tina.login@octee.org

OCTE Fall Conference 2006

PRE-REGISTRATION FORM
Fall 2006 Language Arts/Reading Conference October 7th, 2006 • Lake Oswego High School 2101 SW County Club Road, Lake Oswego

OCTE Fall Conference October 7th at Lake Oswego High School
You can earn .5 CECs by attending this conference.

OCTE 2006 Conference includes a full day of workshops and presentations, centered on the theme of Becoming Literate: Teaching from the Inside Out and encouraging teachers from every perspective in the elementary, middle, and high school levels, and school districts.

Keynote speakers include Tim Gillespie, Carol Jago, and Tim Birdseye. Each speaker tackles years of experience in Language Arts.

Tim Gillespie. His keynote will be a forum to discuss new directions. Times are a-changing in the English classroom.

Carol Jago, also known as ‘the writer’ and ‘the editor’, is a very influential figure in the Language Arts world. She has authored many books with a full slate of conference appearances this year.

Tim Birdseye, a native of Oregon, has long been working in the field of Language Arts. His keynote will be a practical look at the world of Language Arts, with a focus on ‘how to teach’.

Don’t miss the OCTE Fall Conference! It’s a tradition that Language Arts lovers in Oregon can’t wait for each year.

For more information about this conference, please contact:
Tina Login, Office Manager, Oregon Council of Teachers of English, tina.login@octee.org

For information: tina.login@octee.org

OCTE Fall Conference 2006

PRE-REGISTRATION FORM
Fall 2006 Language Arts/Reading Conference October 7th, 2006 • Lake Oswego High School 2101 SW County Club Road, Lake Oswego

OCTE Fall Conference October 7th at Lake Oswego High School
You can earn 0.5 CECs by attending this conference.

OCTE 2006 Conference includes a full day of workshops and presentations, centered on the theme of Becoming Literate: Teaching from the Inside Out and encouraging teachers from every perspective in the elementary, middle, and high school levels, and school districts.

Keynote speakers include Tim Gillespie, Carol Jago, and Tim Birdseye. Each speaker tackles years of experience in Language Arts.

Tim Gillespie. His keynote will be a forum to discuss new directions. Times are a-changing in the English classroom.

Carol Jago, also known as ‘the writer’ and ‘the editor’, is a very influential figure in the Language Arts world. She has authored many books with a full slate of conference appearances this year.

Tim Birdseye, a native of Oregon, has long been working in the field of Language Arts. His keynote will be a practical look at the world of Language Arts, with a focus on ‘how to teach’.

Don’t miss the OCTE Fall Conference! It’s a tradition that Language Arts lovers in Oregon can’t wait for each year.

For more information about this conference, please contact:
Tina Login, Office Manager, Oregon Council of Teachers of English, tina.login@octee.org

For information: tina.login@octee.org

OCTE Fall Conference 2006

PRE-REGISTRATION FORM
Fall 2006 Language Arts/Reading Conference October 7th, 2006 • Lake Oswego High School 2101 SW County Club Road, Lake Oswego

OCTE Fall Conference October 7th at Lake Oswego High School
You can earn 0.5 CECs by attending this conference.

OCTE 2006 Conference includes a full day of workshops and presentations, centered on the theme of Becoming Literate: Teaching from the Inside Out and encouraging teachers from every perspective in the elementary, middle, and high school levels, and school districts.

Keynote speakers include Tim Gillespie, Carol Jago, and Tim Birdseye. Each speaker tackles years of experience in Language Arts.

Tim Gillespie. His keynote will be a forum to discuss new directions. Times are a-changing in the English classroom.

Carol Jago, also known as ‘the writer’ and ‘the editor’, is a very influential figure in the Language Arts world. She has authored many books with a full slate of conference appearances this year.

Tim Birdseye, a native of Oregon, has long been working in the field of Language Arts. His keynote will be a practical look at the world of Language Arts, with a focus on ‘how to teach’.

Don’t miss the OCTE Fall Conference! It’s a tradition that Language Arts lovers in Oregon can’t wait for each year.

For more information about this conference, please contact:
Tina Login, Office Manager, Oregon Council of Teachers of English, tina.login@octee.org

For information: tina.login@octee.org